BURNS-FOLEY FEUD RESTS

JUDGE JOHN J. BURNS

Here we have the participants in Boston's judicial "battle of the century": Judge John J. Burns, youngest justice on the superior court bench, and Dist. Atty. William J. Foley, veteran of many a political flap. The judge today demanded a retraction of the prosecutor's criticism in the Industrial Bank case—and didn't get it. Then the young judge asked if Foley had attacked his integrity. When the prosecutor said he hadn't, the matter rested.

ROOSEVELT AND SCHACHT AGREE ON EASY MONEY

GERMANS ENJOY
REBATES FOR TARIFF TRUCE

Economic and Military Reduction Seen as World's Big Need

Washington, May 12 (INB)—President Roosevelt and Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, head of the Reichsbank, brought their conference on world economic problems to a close today with a joint communique in which they announced their agreement that what the world needs is economic and military disarmament.

Dr. Schacht announced Germany's acceptance of the American-proposed tariff truce with minor reservations.

Their statement follows:

JOINT STATEMENT

"In our conversations we have been guided by the hope that the world economic and monetary problems may be successfully solved by a series of quick and far-reaching solutions necessary to save the economic life of the world.

"We are convinced that this cannot be achieved unless, in connection with economic disarmament, we emphasize the necessity of a speedy elimination of the obstacles to international trade, and we feel that the creation of stable conditions in the monetary field is equally important. Economic and monetary questions are so interdependent that the adjustment of both must necessarily go hand in hand.

CREDIT EXPANSION

"Until the restoration of order in economic life has had its effect in relieving unemployment, all possible endeavors must be made to help the world economy by a sound internal credit expansion program for the mobilization of public and private credit for productive purposes. International co-operation is needed there all else to restore economic life and to insure peace.

We fully agree in our firm resolve to help the world situation by attacking present problems vigorously along these lines.

Dr. Schacht said the President spoke shortly before noon preparatory to departing for New York. He sails for Germany early Saturday.

France Would Clamp On Army Occupation Clause

Paris, May 12 (AP)—The Versailles treaty will continue to operate, French Minister Paul-Boncour declared today, if German intransigence caused the disarmament conference to fail.

"On Schupps (German state police) in barracks and on the military character of German organizations the majority have declared in our favor," Paul-Boncour said in reference to the disarmament negotiations at Geneva.

Compromise Arms Debate Plan Adopted

Geneva, May 12 (INB)—A compromise was adopted by the steering committee of the disarmament conference today in an effort to save the conference from collapse over Germany's armament demands.

Rudolf Nudowy, German delegate, will return to Berlin tonight with new instructions from the Hitler government.

The agreement provides that the steering committee be authorized today a "general discussion of the future British disarmament," thus enabling all countries to express their likes and dislikes.

The hope was expressed that the delay thus obtained will permit the Hitler government to adopt a more conciliatory attitude.

Ex-Kaiser Grants Prince Right to Wed

Berlin, May 12 (INB)—Former Kaiser Wilhelm has finally given his consent to the marriage of Prince Wilhelm of Prussia and Dorothea von Salviati, of lower Austria, the newspaper, Der Anzeiger, reported today. The marriage will break a rule of centuries against a member of the royal family marrying a person of lower rank.

Easy Money!

Rackets are costing the American people ONE BILLION DOLLARS a year, according to informed estimates.

William D. Mitchell, former Attorney-General of the United States, knows how bad conditions are. Just before he left public office, Mr. Mitchell said:

"The endless battle with lawlessness is taking on new forms in our cosmopolitan areas. New types of criminal activities have been developed.

"Organized crime is the thing. No longer are the jacks of society content with the returns of small depreations. They operate on a large scale in big organizations with numerous personnel. They want millions, so they have gone to big business.

"They are laying tribute on commercial and business enterprises, and of the distribution of the necessities of life.

"They aspire to, and at times succeed in obtaining representation in executive, legislative and even judicial offices."

These cannot be called reckless statements. Mr. Mitchell spoke with knowledge from official facts.

STAY HOME, EYES
SAYS CONNOR

Washington, May 12 (AP)—America was veterans were advised today by Irish money (D) Mason, to refrain from participation in the present bonus march.

Asserting he always had advanced cash payment of the bonus and that he believed its payment now would do more than any other thing to restore prosperity, Connor said he feared a march on the Capitol by veterans might do the reverse of the bonus march.

"Without entering into any controversy as to who should or should not be the delegate to the bonus convention," he said, "I want to say that President Roosevelt has endeavored to give the service men simple opportunity to receive their money and has made whereby the delegates to that convention will be kept busy and housed during their stay here."

Public opinion is the strongest weapon of any good cause and no advice to my fellow veterans is to educate their friends and neighbors on every phase of the bonus question. Then let them write to their congressmen and senators, by this means more can be accomplished than a march on Washington with its attendant suffering and perhaps disastrous results to honest legislation.

Ann Harding Home, Too Shaky to Fly

Hollywood, May 12 (INB)—Tom Hurlow, to make the trip by air, to Hollywood by train with his secretary, Miss Louisa, from Havana, where they escaped drowning in an accident in which a Cuban boatman lost his life in a fight with sharks.

Alexander Kirkland, film actor, who accompanied them to Havana, said the newspaper, Los Angeles, reported today. The accident, he said, was a report that she would marry Kirkland as "a life companion."

Boys Finally Tell of Chum's Drowning

Concord, N. H., May 12—After grilling two small boys several hours today, police obtained the admission from them that their chum, George Audette, nine, fell from a raft and was drowned last night in Tarr's pond.

The boys had gone home and said nothing of the accident, but when the parents of the missing boy, Mr. and Mrs. Napoleon Audette, asked police aid, the two chums were awakened and questioned.

Some one of these days, it will be cloudy, and it will rain, and when the day is cloudy, and it rains, the prediction of the weatherman that it will be cloudy and it will rain will be correct.

For four days running the prediction has been cloudy, probably with showers. But it isn't cloudy, and the showers haven't fallen. It will be much warmer today than it has been all week, however. The temperature was 60 at 9 o'clock and rising.

Lowell Workers Win Raise in Pay

Lowell, May 12 (AP)—A strike of 200 employees of the Lowell fertilizer plant was terminated today when the workers accepted a wage increase of five cents an hour.

The increase raises the daily wage from $1.60 to $1.65. The men struck for an increase of 10 cents an hour.

Roosevelt Mortgage Plea

Washington, May 12—The text of President Roosevelt's appeal to mortgage-holders to withhold foreclosures, issued as the President signed the farm-inflation bill, follows:

"I have just signed the farm relief bill, which includes the financing of farm debts.

"The act extends relief not only to farmers borrowers, but to mortgage creditors as well.

"I have urged that mortgage holders will have the privilege of exchanging them for federal land bank bonds, the interest payments upon which are to be guaranteed by the Treasury of the United States.

"Farmers whose mortgages are to be exchanged for these bonds will reap the benefit of lower interest rates and more liberal terms of payment.

"To the benefit of all the people of the United States that the benefits of this act should be extended to all who are in need of them and that none should be deprived of them through ignorance or precipitate action.

"For this reason, I appeal particularly to mortgage creditors

BOMB PLOT MEANS CHANGES
ON U. S. CONSUL

Washington, May 12 (AP)—Gaston B. Means testified in District of Columbia Supreme Court today that the Lindbergh baby was stolen by New Jersey liquor runners.

Continuing the story that he began yesterday in testifying in his own behalf, Means said "Max Hessler" and "Max Greenberg" were responsible for the kidnapping. He added that he did not know the two men but that they had sold beer to servants at the Lindbergh home.

He said "Irving Frenkel," describing previously by him as one of those responsible for the kidnapping, had told him that Col. Lindbergh, as a practical joke on occasion had placed his baby in a closet and told the servants that the baby had been stolen.

This joke, said Means, gave the kidnappers the idea of how to take the baby. One of the members of their "ring" did go to the Lindbergh home with beer, picked the baby from its crib and went away, he added.

Means again told of meeting Fenton at Concord, N. C.

Means, former U. S. Department agent, told of his negotiations with Mrs. Evelyn Walsh McLean, kidnapped wife of the former publisher of the Washington Post, in the story of the kidnapping, which activities resulted in charges that he and Norman T. Webster conspired to defraud Mrs. McLean of $35,000.

Washington, May 16 (AP)—The commerce department reported New Hampshire dropped from 84th that exports of merchandise from 046,090 in 1931 to $2,147,353 in 1932.

Easy Money!

Washington, May 12 (AP)—The revised draft of the public construction-industrial control bill was carried to the White House today by Senator Wagner (D), New York, for a final check with President Roosevelt and a last minute determination of the taxation program.

Speaker Rainey predicted to newspapermen that the $3,200,000, 000 measure would be ready for congressional presentation next week.

Wagner held a brief conference with Senator Wagner, representative of organized labor, just before turning to the White House with the latest draft of the revolutionary plan for controlling and spending up industry.

He said the form of taxation to finance the proposed construction program would be the last thing determined, indicating other features were complete.

MAY TAX, COFFEE

Speculation on the part of tax to be imposed to raise the $3,200,000, 000 construction fund of $200,000,000 has centered around a number of sales taxes. Rainey commented in an interview on levels on coffee, cigarettes, amusements and spices; but emphasized as do other legislators—that conclusions are still to be reached.

Rainey said he thought the sales tax will be a practical sales tax but if President Roosevelt wants it hard enough, it can be made to get it. He added, however, it had not been suggested.

"The suggested increase in taxes on lower incomes would be very unpopular," he said.

REPEAL BIG HIT

"We would get plenty of revenue if the Eighteenth Amendment were repealed," he continued. "It would solve the question of raising additional taxes."

Rainey said a proposal to set up a joint congressional committee to study raising taxes by making it necessary to blood grain alcohol with gasoline was being considered, but he did not expect action at this time.

The proposal is for a heavy tax on gasoline and alcohol, which would be made from farm products.

The speaker said President Roosevelt would send to Congress within the next two weeks a proposal to authorize the administration to negotiate reciprocal treaties in connection with the London economic conference.

Office Supply Measure Lets President Cut Many More Costs

Washington, May 12 (AP)—The $34,878,936 independent office supply bill that nearly halves present veteran costs and grants President Hoover extensive new powers to reduce government office supplies today was passed by the House, 249 to 118, and sent to the Senate.

These powers would permit the President to retire civil service employees with 30 years of service, to modify or cancel any railroad, ocean or air mail contract, to furnish army and marine officers at half pay, to furlough government employees 40 days without pay and to reduce or suspend extra flight pay in the military services.

Consolidation of the bill marked the first departure from Roosevelt recommendations when $100,000,000 was added to the bill to maintain existing field offices of the Veterans Affairs department.

The total appropriated in the bill was $34,878,936, of which $100,000,000 was added to the current fiscal year.

The veterans allotment is $493,000,000 as compared with the existing $500,000,000. It is reduced with the $34,878,936 of veterans in the independent offices of the Veterans Affairs department.

The bill also grants the President the power to reduce government expenditures by a maximum of $100,000,000.

U. S. ON GUARD AGAINST JAPS

Peiping, May 12 (INB)—Nelson T. Johnson, American minister to China, moved today to protect American lives and property in Peiping from danger as Japanese Manchurian troops swept down from the north.

Johnson, remaining calm, "We are prepared to do anything possible to protect Americans from the dangers of invasion."

Chinese troops felt lack and lack of new positions south of Nanaimo.

American observers estimated 20,000 Japanese and 30,000 Chinese are locked in battle south of the city.

A communique from Gen. Ho Ying-chin, Chinese commander, said 20,000 Japanese shells fell in the Chinese lines during the day.

Chinese troops, annihilating all but 300 men of two regiments.

MILLIONAIRE SAYS HE 'PUT GIRL IN ASYLUM TO AID HER'

Mrs. Pinchot Brands Sweatshop Racket National Menace

By MRS. GIFFORD PINCHOT

MRS. GIFFORD PINCHOT JOINS ANTI-SWEATSHOP PARADE AT ALLENTOWN, PA.

(EDITOR'S NOTE—International News Service is privileged to present herewith an article on sweatshop labor, written exclusively for International News Service by Mrs. Cornelia Bryce Pinchot, wife of Gov. Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania and militant crusader against the evils of sweatshop labor. Mrs. Pinchot recently focused nation-wide attention to sweatshop conditions prevailing in some Pennsylvania towns by herself marching in three parades of child pickets at Allentown, Pa.)

(Written Exclusively for and Copyright 1933 by International News Service.)

Milford, Pa., May 12.—The sweatshop manufacturer is nothing more or less than a racketeer, living upon the funds raised for relief just as effectively as if he broke into the vault in the bank where these funds are stored. That is no exaggeration. Let me show you how it works.

Many of them are paying $4, $3, sometimes $2 or even less, for a week's work—full days, mind you. The long hours, often overtime, sometimes even work on Sundays. And with every one speeded up to the limit it is obvious that on such a sum, it is impossible for any man, woman, or child to live in decency, much less to support dependents.

Welfare Boards Forced to Pay Part of Wages

In all the interviews I have had, I do not remember a single case where the worker was not contributing to the support of perhaps three or four, sometimes as many as 11 or more members of his or her family with only a few dollars coming in a week.

What can a family do? What does it do but apply for help to relief board, in the majority of cases. Asking for such relief is the last thing the family wants. Indeed, over and over again, they put off applying for help until their health and morale has been broken down, until all sorts of diseases associated with malnutrition have started to sap their resistance and that of their children.

When the application does come, however, the relief board is forced to act. The family cannot be allowed to starve. So the help is given, enough to make up the difference between what the wage-earner brings in and what it costs that family to keep body and soul together. In other words, the community chest pays part of the manufacturers' wage bill; pays because it cannot let the family starve.

So you see the sweatshop manufacturers are not only exploiting their own workers, but they are robbing the community as well, by dipping their greedy fingers into charity funds and getting the public to carry a definite share of their business obligations.

That is not the only harm they do. The ramifications of their evil practices extend far further than the immediate communities in which they live; extend to the business life of the country itself, operating to destroy its vitality exactly as the starvation wages they pay operate to break down the health of their employees. For every manufacturer who pays wages so scandalously low that his employees cannot reach what we have come to consider the American standard of living is doing his bit to add to the depression; is throwing his monkeywrench into the machinery of recovery.

Racketeering Sweatshops Spread Rain Everywhere

It is obvious that no worker at such wages can possibly buy the products of any other mill or factory; no shoes; no shirts; no suits; no hats; no radio; no new car; no gasoline; no coal; no milk for his children; no canned goods, etc. Thus the racketeering manufacturer is responsible for the closing and for the keeping closed of more and more factories and so throws a stone into the millpond of industrial life that hits thousands of other businessmen as well as their employees.

And this racketeering manufacturer is not only hurting his community and the business life of the community in which he lives, but he is hurting his own business as well, although he is often so dumb that he cannot see it. His argument is that the best thing that he can do for business is to cut costs to bring down the price of the article he sells. That is the excuse he gives for cutting wages.

What in the name of Heaven, however, is the good in him of putting a shirt on the market that can be sold for 25 cents if people are so poor they cannot afford to buy the shirt that he makes?

BUSWELL BACK ON STAND IN LOVE SUIT

Admits He Didn't Try to Find Kin of Maid Who Asks $50,000

H. Leslie Buswell, millionaire Gloucester hotel operator and New York playboy, admitted under cross-examination today that he made no attempt to find relatives of Tyne Niemi, his former maid, who charges he had her "railroaded" to Denver in order to break up her love affair with Charles Nagele, concert pianist, an intimate friend of Buswell.

Buswell is being sued for $50,000 in Salem court by Miss Niemi, who charges he had her "railroaded" to Denver in order to break up her love affair with Charles Nagele, concert pianist, an intimate friend of Buswell.

Buswell insisted his only object in having Tyne removed to an insane hospital was to help her. Tyne, incidentally, is pronounced "Tuna," and is referred to as "Tuna" in all the testimony.

"But didn't you ever hear of private manumissions?" Miss Niemi's attorney, James Graham, asked.

"Yes," Buswell answered, "and I think I suggested it to the doctors who examined her."

A bitter spread through the crowded courtroom when Graham asked Buswell if Dr. Johnson had told him that Tyne said she hoped he would break his neck when he tripped on the stairs during one of his visits to the Buswell home.

Buswell said that his butler, Charles Ernston, had talked with Dr. Johnson and Dr. Randall, whom he had summoned, regarding Tyne after his actions had convinced him there was something mentally wrong with her.

"I was not present at these talks," Buswell said, "because I wanted the better to be perfectly free to talk about me, the family, or anything else without embarrassment."

Following Buswell, his wife took the stand for the first time. In direct examination she said she had to speak to Tyne about her attitude toward other servants. They were continually leaving her employment because Tyne was so disagreeable, she said.

She denied she had ever hugged or kissed Tyne, but admitted in direct examination she said she had to speak to Tyne about her attitude toward other servants. They were continually leaving her employment because Tyne was so disagreeable, she said.

Under cross-examination, Mrs. Buswell admitted that although 33 servants had quit her employ in a year on account of Tyne, she had not discharged her.

BREWERS LOSE BY KEG RACKET

Reputable brewers throughout the East are facing new hazards, according to officials of the Staffener and Comptroller breweries.

Small time brewers who have just gone into the business of making beer, are buying up kegs and barrels from retailers, thus creating a shortage of containers for the local breweries.

The $10 deposit now required by local breweries from all retailers, may possibly be increased to put an end to this racket. In New York, brewers have doubled the deposit from $3 and $6 to $6 and $10 on kegs and barrels respectively.

A beer barrel is worth about $10 to the brewer in material alone and many times that amount because of the shortage of containers all over the country.

Police Drag for Body of Man in Harbor

The body of an unidentified man, believed a suicide, was the object of a search today as harbor police dragged the waters of Dorchester Bay with grapnels. The search started after officers of the Police station, notified by John W. Miller, West Eagle st., East Boston, that he had seen a man jump into the bay from the Coleman Brothers' Dime Store, Victory rd., Dorchester, went to the place and found clothing there.

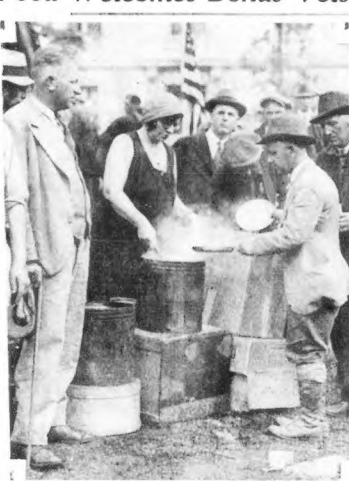

Witness in Death Mystery Is Released

North Adams, May 12 (AP)—Edgar Leucy, 32, held since Monday as a material witness in the investigation of the recent slaying of Leah Lloyd Johnson, 18, was released by police today. Still held for questioning were Ralph Crapo, 18, a victim of the dead girl; John Alcornbriht, 22, and Victor Digi-etti, 21.

Civil War Vet, 94, Dies in Hudson

Hudson, May 12 (AP)—Raymond J. Kennedy, 94, a member of the 6th Mass. G. A. R. died today at his home in Gloucester. He was a native of Boston and served three enlistments in the Civil War. There will be a military funeral Sunday.

Food Welcomes Bonus Vets

HOT MEAL IS THEIR WELCOME

In striking contrast to the treatment given the bonus marchers in Washington last summer, every effort is being made by the administration this year to care for the vets. Women workers turned to help and here the first arrivals are being served with a hot meal at the "recruiting station" in Pennsylvania ave. before going to the camp in Fort Hunt, Va.

CLEAR FORBES IN YACHT FIRE

J. Malcolm Forbes, Boston yachtsman, was exempted from all liability as a result of the destruction of his yacht by fire off Woods Hole in 1929 in final decree handed down by Judge Brewster in federal court today.

Forbes was threatened with damage suits if it could be proved the fire was the result of negligence on the part of Alton D. Fisher of Uxbridge, Massachusetts, who was on the yacht at the time it was destroyed.

Forbes estate, testified to seeing the fire. He said that John Kwart, who was on the yacht at the time it was destroyed, had been burned.

Marx Brothers' Father Dies at 73

Hollywood, May 12 (AP)—Samuel Marx, father of the four Marx brothers, seven comedy quartet, died at the home of his son, Arthur (Harpo), after an illness caused by a kidney ailment. He was 72 years old, and was born in Alsace, France, coming to America 50 years ago.

DOUG'S LOVE SCARS HEAL?

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS, JR. KATHERINE HEPBURN

Hollywood gossip these days is coupling the names of Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., and the exotic Katherine Hepburn, and it looks as though the scars of young Doug's blasted romance with Joan Crawford are being rapidly healed. Perhaps Katherine, not long ago proclaimed as a real film "find," is helping, because they are seen often together. Here they are leaving the home of Jesse Lasky after a private preview. (Int. Joan Crawford Wins Divorce

Los Angeles, May 12 (AP)—Joan Crawford, screenstar, was granted a divorce today by Judge Douglas Fairbanks Jr., an equally famous younger film actor.

Charges of "gross mental cruelty" related from the witness stand were the title-haired Joan's decree in a brief court appearance before Judge Minor Moore.

Appearing highly nervous, Miss Crawford took the witness stand at 11 in a small sports car which set off her tanned face.

Instances in which she said Fairbanks "jealous and suspicious attitude regarding her friends" were given by the actress in support of her claim her husband's actions had caused her "great mental suffering."

'HONOR' BANDIT TAKES $100

An "honest" gunman held up a store on Arlington st., Chelsea, today, forced the manager and clerk into the cellar and walked off with $100.

While Morris Miles, manager, was counting yesterday's receipts in the back room, a young man, well dressed, bought a package of cigarettes. Irving Toltz, clerk, couldn't change a nickel, the day's change had not been placed in the till. So he took a dime from the customer, who promised to return with a penny.

He did return ten minutes later, a penny in one hand and a gun in the other.

"Here's your penny," he said. Then at gunpoint he drew Toltz into the cellar. Miles looked up to see what the trouble was and stared into the gun. "Is quickly joined Toltz in the cellar."

The gunman collected a sheaf of bills, but was careful to leave the change, including his own penny, so no other customers would not be forced to return to the store as he did, to preserve his reputation for honesty.

ARTIST RIVERA LOSES G. M. JOB

New York, May 12 (AP)—Diego Rivera, whose portrait of Vladimir Lenin in a mural on the walls of the R.C.A. building in Rockefeller center caused the Rockefeller family to terminate his contract and cover up the work, was today faced with the loss of another important commission.

The Mexican painter was to leave in a few days to begin work on a mural to portray the development of machinery on the walls of the General Motors building at the 1933 Chicago World's fair.

Last night he received this telegram from Albert Kahn, architect for General Motors Corp.

"I have instructions to discontinue with the Chicago mural. This is undoubtedly due to the minority created by the Radio City situation. Am terribly disappointed and will still do my best to get permission for you to proceed."

Rivera said he would make no move to have General Motors reconsider the decision.

8 AMERICANS AT COURT TONIGHT

London, May 12 (INS)—Eight more American debutantes and mistresses will make the double circuit of the English throne tonight in the second of the five royal courts of 1933.

They are Mrs. Howard Cutting of New York city; Mrs. F. W. Hamilton Dyckman of Orange, N. J.; Miss Alice Geyelin of Bryn Mawr, Pa.; Mrs. Arthur Lehman Goodhart of New York city; Mrs. Franklin G. Cowles of Philadelphia; Miss Augusta Harrison of Villa Nova, Pa.; Mrs. John R. Upham of St. Paul, Minn.; and Mrs. Frederick Hale of Chicago.

Altogether, about 400 debutantes will be presented tonight and there will be a total of 900 persons invited to Buckingham Palace.

King George will be presided by the presentation of the debutantes' court, as he was last night's. It is said, however, the shoulder stiffness was yielding to massage, and it was hoped he would be able to wear his heavy regalia at the third and fourth courts next week. The Prince of Wales took his father's place.

Custer Relics Are Willed to Nation

New York, May 12 (INS)—Relics associated with momentous events and personages in the nation's history were bequeathed to the government by Mrs. Elizabeth Deacon Custer, widow of Gen. George A. Custer, who died April 4 last.

Two flags of truce used when Gen. R. E. Lee surrendered to Gen. U. S. Grant and the table on which Lee wrote his capitulation to Grant were left to the government. A coat button from one of George Washington's coats was bequeathed to the U. S. Military Academy.

Boy Killer to Get 20 Years

New York, May 12 (INS)—Found guilty of second degree murder for the killing of 12-year-old Willie Bender, a mandatory prison sentence of 20 years to life was given today by Judge Charles F. Sullivan, 15-year-old Harry Murch, New York's "legal infant," today.

The verdict was returned by a jury of 12 men, 10 of whom were fathers, after just under five hours' deliberation. Sentence will be pronounced on May 13.

Young Murch took the verdict stoically. He exhibited neither joy at his escape from the electric chair nor dismay at the prospect of spending the next 20 years of his life behind prison bars.

Murch stabbed the Bender boy last Jan. 21, after binding, gagging and blinding him.

BOSTON WOMAN IN BUS CRASH

Youngstown, O., May 12 (AP)—Mrs. M. C. King, 51, of Maple st., Boston, and 17 persons were injured, six seriously, when a bus was wrecked three miles west of Covington, on the Cleveland Warren road, early today. The bus was bound from Detroit to New York.

Traveling through a fog, the bus left the road and went into a six-foot ditch, struck a tree and partly overturned against a steep bank.

Mrs. King suffered cuts on face, head and wrist and suffered from shock. She was taken to Warren City Hospital.

SAME GUN SLEW 2 IN RECLUSE MURDERS

New York, May 12 (INS)—A promising clue to the sub-cellular double murder of Edward A. Riddle, 35-year-old millionaire secretary, and his secretary, Lee Weinstein, was unearthed by police today.

Ballistics experts, it was announced, have ascertained that the seven bullets which killed Weinstein were of the same calibre and came from the same gun used in the murder two years ago of Riddle's former secretary, Herman Monch.

Weinstein met death in the basement of the underworld office corridor almost on the same spot where Monch was slain. Police said they have reason to believe both crimes were committed by the same killer or killers.

The secretary was killed with bullets, but his aged employer was beaten to death with a high bookkeeper's stool. Investigators conjectured that Riddle, whose fortune was estimated at $2,000,000, came upon the killer as they were about to flee and was killed to prevent an outcry.

FOUGHT SAVAGELY

Despite his age, however, there was evidence the crime was not a fight fought savagely. A two-foot length of black silk, possibly part of a bra, was found near the body, covered with blood stains. Examination in the laboratory showed the blood was neither that of Weinstein nor Riddle.

Today it became evident that a legal battle for a $200,000 legacy would hinge on whether Weinstein or his wealthy employer had been the first to meet death at the hands of a vengeful assassin.

With the possession of a fortune hanging on the few ticks of a clock that may have separated the dying gasps of the two principals, Acting Chief Medical Examiner Theodore A. Gonzales refused to give a definite opinion.

Riddle's death, it was disclosed, was caused by twenty-two blows on the head which caused compound fracture of the skull and brain hemorrhage.

Seven steel-jacketed .32 caliber bullet ended Weinstein's life, inflicting wounds in the head, face, brain, shoulder, abdomen, liver and kidney. Three of these compared with a bullet from Monch's body, showed identical markings.

KNOW HE WAS HOUNDED

"When I reached the scene, Riddle's body was warmer than Weinstein's," Dr. Gonzales admitted. "This would be no definite indication that Riddle lived longer, however, since the amount of clothing such wear and the positions of their bodies are factors that must be considered."

Questioning of Anna Riddle, of Brooklyn, a cousin of the red-headed recluse, and statements of colored servants in the rambling old boarding house in Faneuil, N. J., where Riddle lived indicated that he knew he was being hounded.

Miss Riddle said she had visited her cousin six weeks ago and he had told her:

"There is a lady detective in the next room. She is always shadowing me. I know they are after me. They are always after me."

Believing that he might be suffering from hallucinations, Miss

Riddle said she had not questioned the cloverly old capitalist further. But his murder, an mysteriously completed an obvious intrigue had convinced her, she declared, that his suspicions were well founded.

New York, May 12 (INS)—Roxanne Zbyszko, 33-year-old heavy-weight wrestling champion, was fast in the grip of a $100,000 breath-of-steam suit today. Miss Dorothy Bussek, 21, of Winnipeg, a music teacher, is asking a Supreme Court jury to award her that amount. She claims Zbyszko, who is 53, wooed her for two years before she discovered he was married.

STATE TROOPS STAY IN BARRE

Barre, Vt., May 12 (AP)—Vermont national guardsmen will continue to enforce law on Barre's streets until such time as the business men of the city propose some plan for keeping mobs off the streets.

The granite workers through the area have refused to return to work until satisfactory wage agreements were reached with their employers. Outbursts of violence have marked the "holiday" and the troops were called in to preserve order.

The merchants complained that the soldiers entered stores and forced customers to leave and then ordered the storekeepers to close their shops. They also claimed that bayonets were used to induce haste on the part of persons walking through the downtown district. Immigration officers who have been working in the area for a week have arrested four persons.

Mrs. Roosevelt Records Daily Doings in the White House

Washington, May 12 (AP)—It isn't exactly a diary, but Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt writes an account of each day in the White House as it passes.

She does it because she sees the importance of recording history in the making, and it is now forty that she did not similarly record her eight years here in war times when her husband was assistant secretary of the navy.

Mrs. Roosevelt rejoices that she did keep a day-by-day record of the trip she took with him to Europe at the end of the World War to close up camps.

Only six weeks after hostilities ceased, she saw the first, just as it had been when the fighting went back over the ground with her boys and her written record.

BOMB THREATS END IN ARREST

Philadelphia, May 12 (AP)—A bizarre, 20-day campaign to extort $75,000 from the Pennsylvania railroad under threat of blowing up passenger trains is over and James Vandervelde, 32, a pale, undernourished truck driver, faces prosecution.

He was captured last night after days of effort by police to trap the writer of letters that threatened wholesale destruction of trains and caused a heavy guard to be placed over W. C. Higginbottom, general manager of the road's eastern region.

Police said Vandervelde made a complete confession in which he declared his threats were a "bluff" and made only to obtain funds to support his wife and three children.

Vandervelde said he had been unemployed for 18 months.

His arrest came as he reached into a parked automobile in which officials had been instructed to leave the money.

FILMED AT BAR, ASKS $50,000

New York, May 12 (AP)—Mrs. Frances S. Spence has filed suit in Supreme Court seeking to restrain Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Distributing Corp. from further showing of a film which depicts her standing at the bar in "Roggy Joe's" saloon in Havana, Cuba.

She also asks damages of $50,000.

She said she alleged that she did not know the film had been made until friends saw it. On seeing it herself at a theater, she said, she found herself "drinking and looking as if I had taken too many."

She said that she was escorted by her husband, but that he was not shown in the film.

What Are You Going to Do About It?

UNTIL a few days ago, William Brown was an unknown man.

He was known, of course, to his neighbors.

He was known also to his patrons in business as the head of a trucking company in New York City, and likewise, it seems, he was known to RACKETEERS. But the public had never heard of William Brown until lately.

According to police records, here is what happened.

A TRIO of men "organized" themselves as officials of "The Five Borough Truckmen's Association," purporting to "control" a large section of the metropolis, with its rich pickings.

Brown was "invited" to "join" the "association" and to pay for its "protection."

His business, his employees and his life were threatened if he did not join.

Brown replied that he was "an American citizen who knew his rights" and the "organizers" could go where they belonged.

Soon afterward, one of his trucks was stalled on the road with acid in its cylinders.

Then two employees—one of them his brother—were beaten.

Then Brown was visited again, and "invited" at the point of a pistol to "join" the "protective association."

DID he? He did not! He went to the authorities, and got the three men whom he accuses INDICTED for coercion, conspiracy and assault.

Today, William Brown is in the news—deservedly. He has HAD THE COURAGE TO EXPOSE A RACKET.

But ALL the rackets that prey on men like William Brown must be exposed and broken. And every law-abiding American can help to break them.

What are YOU going to do about it?

$66,810,420 IN TAXES UNPAID

Tax Commr. Henry F. Long announced today that an analysis of tax collections indicated that the 255 cities and towns in the commonwealth were making heavy efforts to pay up their debts while cutting government costs to the limit.

In the entire state, there remain only $66,810,420 in uncollected taxes of May 1. In the four-year period from 1928 to 1932, taxes amounted to $1,088,472,016. Until Jan. 1, 1933 only 8.2 per cent of this amount was collected. From Jan. 1 to May 1 this figure was cut to 8.1 per cent, a remarkable record. Long pointed out, considering the times.

The direct tax for 1932 was $28,047,773. A figure which Long said would probably not be exceeded for a generation due to the fact that municipalities are intent on reducing expenditures to a minimum.

The amount of taxes collected for 1932 has not been computed for the entire state, and figures are based on a four-year period due to the fact that taxes uncollected in one year run into the figures of the following year.

STRIKE OF 200 ENDS IN LYNN

A four-day strike involving 200 leather workers of Agnos Leather Company, Lynn, was settled today through the efforts of Acting Mayor Timothy A. Curtin.

Michael Corcoran, business agent of the union, called the strike when the Agnos company refused to rehire John O'Leary, shipping room foreman, a former striker. O'Leary will go back to work at noon today and so will the 200 other employees.

Curtin will confer today with officials of the Gomprow Kid Company, whose workers have been on strike several months. The Gomprow company is not a member of the manufacturers' group involved in the recent leather strike.

JACK OAKIE PLAYS DUAL ROLE

Paramount Picks Favorites for Leading Roles in Film "Alice's Adventures in Wonderland"

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

Metropolitan Editor, Universal Service
Copyright, 1933, by Universal Service, Inc.

Los Angeles, May 12—An event in every youngster's life should be "Alice's Adventures in Wonderland." Paramount is actually going to bring all those eccentric, fanciful characters, both youngsters and grownups, to the screen. The dear old Mad Hatter will be played by Charley Ruggles, no less. Jack Oakie, with the aid and benefit of double exposure, plays the two fat little brothers, Tweedledum and Tweedledee.

Worst Alice Skipworth her granda Alice's Duchess. Charles Laughton can take his pick of either the Walrus or the Cheshire Cat, whichever role he prefers he will play. Mary Boland's caution humor will be emphasized in the Red Queen. Alice is yet to be chosen.

Why not Mary? Mary Pickford? Heretofore she has played as Alice, but now she is to play the White Rabbit. Disney, are Louella Parsons grand. A special musical background will be arranged. Norman Taurog, whose "Slippery" and "Booby" must history, will probably direct.

Annals of Talkies
We have had plenty of elated with the middle of the year, marching in line, but it remains for Radio to make the first talkie of Annals. The story is based on an original by that pioneer, C. Cabanne, who will direct. F. McGraw Willis, another old-timer, is writing the screen play.

Funny Man Gets Job

POLICE FIGHT SOMERVILLE PAY SLASH

President George J. Moran of the Somerville aldermen today called a special meeting tonight to take action on an order calling for a general 15 per cent cut in police salaries.

It is claimed that this action is necessary because 61 of the 152 policemen have refused to make a voluntary contribution of five per cent of their salaries, in addition to ten per cent previously contributed for welfare relief.

A battle is expected because the 80 officers who have volunteered the additional cut do not want the reduction made compulsory, even though the aldermen insure provided for a cut for this year only.

PROPOSED NEW SCALE

Under the proposed cut, the chief would be paid on an annual basis of $3500 instead of $4000, which was the salary before the war. The contribution was voluntary. Deputy chief $2500 instead of $3000, captains, $2100 instead of $2500, lieutenants, $1875, instead of $2250; sergeants, $1215, instead of $1500; first year patrolmen, $412 a day; second year patrolmen, $458, and others $510 instead of $6.

The measure which will come before the aldermen tonight provides for giving the policemen a hearing on the matter next Wednesday if they have any protests to make. Three of the policemen who have pledged the added 5 per cent asked for by Mayor Murphy have brothers on the Board of Aldermen.

ALL NIGHT DEBATE

When this measure came before the aldermen last night a debate started which lasted into this morning, with Alderman Elmer F. Walsh forcing postponement of a vote until another meeting. Mr. Moran countered by calling the record of Mayor Murphy has ordered the recordant 63 assigned to night duty, if it is already on night duty. The shifts cannot be made before Monday.

Some of them are talking of hiring former Dist. Atty. Robert T. Bland to protect their rights, as they are awaiting the outcome of aldermanic action.

KIDNAPING SETS NEW RULES

Harwichport, May 12.—Strict rules for dismissal of pupils from schools went into effect here and in other sections of Cape Cod today as an aftermath of the Peggy McMath kidnaping.

To guard against abductions from classrooms, as Peggy was, Charles H. Pratt, superintendent of schools for Harwich, Chatham, Orleans and Eastham, decreed that any person who called for a child be identified and his name recorded. The order applied also to the school buses.

Kenneth Black, confessed kidnaper of Peggy, was at last represented by counsel today after several attorneys declined to take up his defense.

His brother, Cyril, charged with extortion, has not yet been assured that J. Frank Klerman, of Weymouth, will handle his case.

Wage Increases Indicate More Business in New England

A survey of statistics recently made public reveals today that New England business is on the upgrade with indications in rising security and commodity prices, increases in orders over last year and added buying.

Included in the survey are the cotton, shoe and clothing industries, department store sales, car loadings and power productions.

In the cotton textile industry definite improvement and marked increase in orders have been noted in recent weeks. Ten per cent wage increases were effective in Lowell silk mills and Maine textile mills were reported operating at 90 per

TARIFF TRUCE IS RATIFIED

London, May 12 (INS) International agreement to the tariff truce proposed by President Roosevelt as the first step toward economic rehabilitation was reached this afternoon with a number of reservations.

The agreement was announced at the conclusion of a special session of the organizing committee of the World Economic Conference.

A long delay by Germany in signifying its assent to the truce had threatened the project with disaster.

Germany's assent to the proposal was not received until the committee went into session in the old cabinet room at the foreign office in Downing street. Just before the delegates assembled, a telegram was received from Rome announcing Italy's adherence to the plan.

cent efficiency and suffering from labor shortages.

The upturn in hide and leather prices is reflected in the activity evident in New England shoe industry. Massachusetts led all shoe manufacturing states in the country with a total of $2,424,945 pair of shoes produced in March.

Department stores report a more than seasonal increase in sales. The two largest New England railroads report a substantial rise in car loadings in the last few weeks.

New England power production has also risen above the rate of a year ago. The most recently reported week is 2.5 per cent above 1932. The Edison Electric Company for the first time in three years reported consumption last week at a rate higher than the preceding year. The total for New England was 3.8 per cent higher.

R. I. Mills Show Large Gains in Employment

Providence, May 12 (AP)—Industrial employment increased sharply in Rhode Island during April, both as compared with the preceding month and a year ago. Daniel X. McLaughlin, state commissioner of labor, reported today to 316 plants, working force at the end of April were 9.9 per cent higher than at the end of March, 1932, and 5.8 per cent higher than at the close of March, 1933.

The broadest improvement was recorded by the textile trades, but all manufacturing except the jewelry division reported March and April gains.

Seventeen woolen manufacturers branched their working 31.6 per cent in April as compared with March. Of 45 cotton plants increased employment 4.2 per cent; silk mills increased 11.2 per cent, and 27 woolen plants reported a 7.7 per cent increase. As compared with a year ago, the cotton group reported a 2.8 per cent employment gain; the silk mills a 4.1 per cent gain, and the worsted group a 15.4 per cent gain.

HEARST SHIELD TO RIFLEMEN

New Bedford, May 12.—The Hearst shield, emblematic of the second place in the junior section of the eastern division of the Hearst rifle championship, was presented to the rifle team of the O. E. C. of the New Bedford high school today.

The presentation was made by Capt. John Sitt, New Bedford alderman. Sheldon Morris captained the team. The other members are Harry D. C. Smith, Alfred Martin, Benjamin F. Howe, Jr. and Walter D. Noyes. The New Bedford team won seventh place in the shoot.

TROOPS GUARD MAINE FIREBUG

Ellsworth, Me., May 12 (AP)—Close-mouthed and undemonstrative, Norman Moore, 25-year-old farm hand, was held in a virtually incommunicado in a jail cell here after he allegedly had signed a confession he was responsible for the fire that spread into a $200,000 sawlog pile here Sunday night.

Only those in authority were allowed access to the jail as officials took steps to bring Moore before court today on a charge of arson. They said Moore displayed slight concern over his situation. Guardsmen were stationed about the county jail building as a deterrent to possible mob violence. Last night crowds of resentful inhabitants loitered and circled near the building but no incident occurred which could be construed as leading toward mob law. Meanwhile the work of rebuilding and relief for fire sufferers went forward. Maurice R. Reddy of Washington, assistant national director of relief for the American Red Cross, arrived to coordinate the work of Red Cross chapters and direct agencies striving to mitigate distress caused by the fire.

Landlords and rental agencies have investigated the free rental service at the R. H. White Co. 7. If not, it will be to your advantage to consult with Barbara Holmes immediately.

TORRENCE, FILM STAR, DYING

New York, May 12.—Ernest Torrence, Hollywood's leading character actor, is at the point of death in Lenox Hill hospital, with his wife and son, Ernest, Jr., constantly at his bedside, and three specialists in attendance.

Torrence and his wife were on their way to Scotland for a vacation, when he was stricken. He was rushed to the hospital, where an operation was immediately performed. But complications set in and he failed to rally. His son was summoned from the Pacific coast.

Torrence was born and educated in Edinburgh, Scotland. He studied music in the Conservatory of Stuttgart, Germany, and the Royal Academy of Music in London.

His success as an actor in "Night Boat" attracted motion picture producers, and he was induced to go to Hollywood.

Among his best-known roles were "Foliate David" and the Scout in "The Covered Wagon."

Ely and Curley Agree With Congressmen on Allotting Posts

President Roosevelt will begin distributing federal patronage in Massachusetts within the next three weeks, it was learned from an authoritative source today.

Definite agreement as to who will be allowed to name persons for the various important local government posts has been reached by Gov. Ely, Mayor Curley, Senators David I. Walsh and Marcus C. Coombs and the several Democratic congressmen of the Commonwealth.

PAPAS TO BE NAMED
Walsh names of successors to the present Republican office holders have been given and decided upon, it was learned that all that remains now is for those who have been given the privilege of patronage to forward the names to President Roosevelt.

Unless there is a change in plan, appointments will be made for the District of Columbia, the District of Massachusetts, no definite information is available as to the choice but it was learned that those of those to be appointed assistant U. S. attorneys will be from the Commonwealth.

FRIEND OF LEADERS
In addition to being a practicing lawyer, Ely is associated with members of his family in a large importing business with headquarters in Boston's North End.

Pappas is a close friend of James Roosevelt, son of the President, and of Paul Keefe, who was campaign manager for Governor Ely in his successful fight for reelection last fall, and of Mayor Curley. He is a graduate of Boston University Law School and is 30 years old.

Pappas will have the distinction of being the first man of Greek ancestry to be appointed to federal office in this Commonwealth.

HOSPITAL DAPS OBSERVED
Hospitals of Greater Boston threw open their doors to visitors today in celebration of National Hospital Day.

In addition to inspection of departments and clinics, many hospitals provided music and refreshments as part of the day's observance.

Twenty-three clinics of the New England medical center were open from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m. Dr. George H. Bigelow spoke at 3 p. m. Ladies connected with the center acted as hostesses there and at the Boston Dispensary, the Boston Children's Hospital and the Tufts Medical School.

At the Faulkner hospital, guests of the trustees will be entertained at a luncheon at the hotel. A concert by the patients will be the feature of the observance at the Veterans' Hospital in Bedford.

Mayor Curley was guest speaker at the exercises in the New England medical center and at the Veterans' Hospital. A flight of planes dropped a congratulatory letter from Governor Ely on the hospital lawn during the event.

The day will be observed tomorrow at the Melrose hospital with a tea, open house and concert.

Red Cross Asks for $15,000 in Maine Aid
Massachusetts is asked to contribute $15,000 to the Red Cross for the relief of the homeless in Maine.

It was pointed out the figures had added significantly to the view of the fact that total registrations for the first four months of this year are 48,007 more than for the same period last year.

WHEN FAT'S IN THE FIRE IN WATERTOWN

Chief John W. O'Hearn laid the fire to follow fast which had boiled over on the range. Hot air explosions followed. It was at first thought the fire and explosions were part of a reign of terror in the dyeing and cleaning racket.

HEAVY DAMAGE IN FAT FIRE
The blast that wrecked a two-family house on Coolidge Hill rd., Watertown, last night, was a "knockout punch," and the explosion have caused some to believe that the new beer contains 32 percent alcohol on the label only and not the bottle.

The Boston Evening American today selected at random five samples of representative beers and submitted them to Sharps Laboratory, the oldest established laboratory in the city, and there the samples analyzed by F. W. Bennett, former state chemist.

Here is Bennett's report. It shows that all the beer analyzed is at present possible to standards. Four of the brands are slightly less than 32 because the government will not allow it to be sold if it goes over that mark. The above 32 alcohol weight or 4 percent by volume.

Remembering that the temperature outside the brewery causes a variation in the alcoholic content of beer, here are the laboratory figures submitted today.

Curley to Use White Fund to Wipe Out City Slums
Boston's unwholesome tenement properties will be wiped out and city-owned apartment houses erected at their sites if plans being considered today by Mayor Curley and trustees of the George Robert White Fund are given approval.

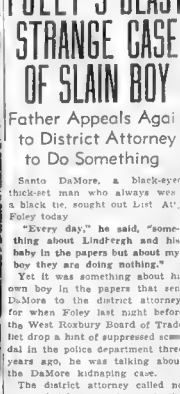

First work will begin in North End, according to plans, and the construction program, extended over a period of years, will lead eventually to disappearance of all insanitary dwellings in the congested sections of the city.

The proposed city-owned apartment houses will be operated along lines of those now in use in Great Britain and Germany.

Purdes to deny cost of the work will come from the income of the White Fund and the trustees of the fund will supervise the operation of the buildings.

Police Warn Against Fake Fur Salesman
Police have issued a warning to Greater Boston merchants to be on guard against a peddler of cheap furs, driving a car bearing Rhode Island registration plates. Reports have come to police it was said that the men are trying to sell fake furs to unwary purchasers.

FATHER APPEALS AGAIN TO DISTRICT ATTORNEY TO DO SOMETHING

Santo DaMora, a black-eyed, thick-set man who always wears a black tie, sought out List A. Foley today.

"Every day," he said, "something about Lindbergh and his baby in the papers but about my boy they are doing nothing."

It was something about his own boy in the papers that sent DaMora to the district attorney, for when Foley last night before the West Roxbury Board of Trade let drop a hint of suppressed scandal in the police department three years ago, he was talking about the DaMora kidnaping case.

The district attorney called no names, but he was referring to the kidnaping of Salvatore DaMora, 10, on June 20, 1928—his murder and the finding of his body on the beach in New York City.

"Peter the Sheik," was suspected of being the brains of the gang that kidnaped Salvatore. He is still under that suspicion, but he is dead and nothing can be done about it. Even if the evidence to back up the suspicion is found.

HEAD OF TERRORIST GANG
He was a blackmailer and a bomber, and the brains of the terrorist gang that "phoned" 101 times in New York City. He was just such a man as would have no education about kidnaping Salvatore or anyone else.

When it was found that a North End alcohol dealer whom Santo DaMora, 10, had stopped patronizing had been in conference with "Peter the Sheik,"

...third man, who was stopping in the hotel with the "sheik," was arrested. He was a New York car who actually carried the little boy off the North End street.

Foley wanted not only samples of the "sheik" but also wanted his friend, but he also wanted to know if he was a "sheik" and a wait return of the actual kidnaping.

LATCH FOR UNDERWORLD
This they were doing when one morning Foley was outstayed to see a gang leader. Several times he had been arrested, but if he wanted "Peter the Sheik" he would have to write the gang would gladly provide both. Foley was outstayed because he was a "sheik" and a wait return of the actual kidnaping.

Bus Service During Arlington Parade
Because of the parade in Arlington tomorrow in connection with the Massachusetts Music Festival, motor coach service will be substituted for car service between 2 and 4 p. m. from the North Cambridge station to Arlington Heights and Clarendon Hill-Broadway lines.

After the parade, expected to end at 6 o'clock, normal car service will resume.

"Peter the Sheik" knew what was up. His friend, the suspected kidnaper, never did return to the hotel after he was arrested. Several months by the late Inspector Joe Connelley.

SOMEBODY FOZZLED
Cavanaugh and Inspector Martin Conroy had learned that the kidnaping was being done, before his body was found. The district attorney first mentioned the case to Santo DaMora to pay ransom and had called the district attorney to "Peter the Sheik." It all linked up but something fozzled. A scandal, perhaps, or maybe just a mistake on the part of the police.

So Santo DaMora, who always wears a black tie, sought out List A. Foley today to see if anything couldn't be done about arresting his son's kidnapers. He says a lot of people know they are, he says he himself knows.

Curley to Be Speaker
Mayor Curley plans to leave Boston tonight for New York City to be guest speaker at a testimonial dinner in Postmaster General James A. Ryan in State Commodore.

Boston Gas Co. Pays City Million Tax in Advance

The Boston Consolidated Gas Co. as a token of its good will toward the city of Boston today will pay advance taxes of $1,000,000 to the Corporation Counsel Samuel Silverman.

The agreement to take this action was reached at a hearing before the State Board of Tax Appeals, at which municipal authorities consented to reduce the assessment on property of the company from $2,000,000 to $2,500,000.

Originally the company sought and obtained from the tax appeal board a reduction in assessments of $5,000,000 making the value of their properties $2,000,000.

In order from Mayor Curley this was raised again to $2,500,000 by city officials.

The matter was again taken before the board of tax appeals and after the city had agreed to the $2,500,000 reduction, gas company officials volunteered to pay taxes which would not be due until October 2, next.

Judge to Make Sidewalk Safe

Judge Carr of municipal court is going to make sidewalks, at least, safe for pedestrians, even if he has to send motorists to jail.

When Armando Bernardini of Cottage park, South Boston, was arrested in court today for injuring Carl S. Green on Winter st. early today, he told the court:

"I had to run up on the sidewalk to avoid hitting a man who was running in the street ahead of me."

Judge Carr held Bernardini in $1000 for sentence next Tuesday, and said:

"If the time has come when a pedestrian on the sidewalk is in danger from reckless drivers, then the time has come to call a halt to such driving with jail sentences."

Auto Figures Show Boom Is On

Figures for auto registration in the state in the month of April were interpreted today as indicative of an upward trend in business conditions. The total shows an increase of 1951 over the figures for April, 1932.

It was pointed out the figures had added significantly to the view of the fact that total registrations for the first four months of this year are 48,007 more than for the same period last year.

Cavanaugh Is Questioned by Police Before Murder of Kruger Is Known

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Lena Lunessa, beautiful motion picture star, is embarrassed at the premiere of her latest picture, "The Murder of Kruger," whom she thought in prison, arrives and threatens to reveal his identity unless she talks with him. Lucky Cavanaugh, a gambler, pretends Kruger from making a scene and has him placed in a private office to await him after the show. In the next office, thieves are burglarizing the safe. Leni goes to Kruger. He demands recognition as her husband. She relieves, but he says he will wait for her to reconsider. Cavanaugh, fascinated by Leni's beauty, follows her into the box. The assassin in the dark, in an unguarded moment, she allows him to kiss her. Suddenly recognizing her companion, she asks him to take her back and forget about it. Cavanaugh goes to Kruger and insists that he leave, but the latter is defiant. The burglar blows the safe and shoot Kruger.

NO GO ON WITH THE STORY

By ROBERT TERRY SHANNON
CHAPTER 10

THE MAN with the flashlight shut it off as Kruger struck the floor. It would have been ridiculously easy to fire another shot into the lighted room where Cavanaugh stood stark still—a target that could not be missed. The assassin in the dark, in fact, had begun to level his revolver when one of his companions knocked it aside.

"Don't be a fool," said one of the men hoarsely. For men in their position it was bad technique to commit another murder. Their sole object now was to escape as adroitly as possible. One of the motioned the door, leaving Cavanaugh standing alone in the office where a moment before the living Kruger faced him. "I'll have to get out of here at once," Cavanaugh said to himself. "I'm not here to be arrested."

In a dashed way he was aware of what had happened. Kruger had burst into upon the scene of crime and his life had been paid. Cavanaugh looked about him. A glittering something on the floor attracted his eye. It was the cheap revolver dropped by the assassin. There was no belief in his mind that Kruger was merely wounded—alive and still a menace. The single bullet had spoken with the voice of death. Cavanaugh felt the inward knowledge that he was beyond redemption. The word death came through his mind like the tolling of a bell. Karl Kruger had gone of taking his own life with him.

Without burying Cavanaugh let himself into the outer corridor and closed the door behind him. There in the back part of the theater he could hear dimly the mechanical dialogue of the characters on the screen. The throat of his pistol in his wrist was quite distinct. His heart had a heavy beating that was almost a jar.

The remarkable thing was that he had escaped both Kruger's bullet and any implication in the murder. It remained only for him to walk casually back to the box and sit down behind Leni Lunessa. His next ally.

If anyone by chance should inquire he had merely been in the foreground smoking a cigarette. After all, he had had practically nothing to do with Kruger's death. Poor devil!

— WAVE OF FIFTY

For an instant Cavanaugh felt a wave of pity for the man, but immediately it was engulfed in a great feeling of relief for Leni's sake. For her the black tent of fear had been killed. It was a good thing Cavanaugh decided deliberately that Kruger was dead. By any process of human reasoning the man had forfeited all right to live.

At the end of the corridor Cavanaugh set foot on the first step leading downward when he almost bumped into a stocky figure ascending.

"This it came about that Tom Mulrooney encountered—and he remembered the presence of Lucky Cavanaugh in a part of the theater where Cavanaugh had no business to be.

This was important, because Mulrooney was head of the city's detective force. A short, wide-shouldered man, with a stubby red mustache and eyes as blue and cool as a child's. Cavanaugh, he was in Leni Lunessa, would have passed him.

the stairs, leaving Mulrooney standing where he was.

People are always moving about somewhere in a large theater during a performance—waiters, managers, restless patrons.

Mulrooney and Cavanaugh, as they talked, had not been unnoticed.

Three men dressed as waiters and carrying packages had given quick glances at the detective and Lucky Cavanaugh, and then hurriedly in the opposite direction.

Their evening had been a complete success, marked only by the incident of the assassin. A superb detective might have spotted them and created them, but Tom Mulrooney was not the type for such startling achievement. Tom was merely a middle-aged man in a suit, the routine of preliminary duties.

Headed, he had not as yet discovered that a safe had been blown and no unidentified man had been practically under his nose.

Cavanaugh, as he made his way down to Leni's box, tried to dismiss Mulrooney from his mind. Nevertheless, he realized quite clearly that he was in a spot.

NO EVIDENCE

As soon as the robbery and murder came to light, Mulrooney would lovingly remember Cavanaugh's wandering around near the scene.

Well, well, Lucky. We good to see you again, Mulrooney said. He tried to get a look at the detective's face.

"I don't see anything but my toothbrush, as usual," grinned Cavanaugh.

"That's a smart story and I don't blame you for sticking to it," Mulrooney said. "Let me see your picture tonight."

"I don't see you in the box with Leni Lunessa?"

"Yes—that's right," Mulrooney said. "I was waiting for you."

Cavanaugh waited a moment before he spoke. "I was waiting for you," he said. "I was waiting for you."

"I was waiting for you," Mulrooney said. "I was waiting for you."

Sears, Roebuck draw live

By BILL GIMES
With aspirations of their annual golfers, the Boston Retail Trade Board Four Ball League opens its season late this afternoon at the Albemarle Golf Club. Although the Retail Trade Board has been leading since 1928, it is a four ball league. There are four teams represented in the league: Conrad & Pileus, Hoyes & Gleibert, White & Shatters, and Shields & Jordan. The Sears, Roebuck Club, the Shepard Stores, E. L. Taylor, and J. H. White Co. are also members.

On the basis of their performance during annual tournaments the contest match on afternoon will be the clash between the Shepard stores and the Jordan Club.

Although the other members of the four ball league will not be decided until after the match between the Shepard stores and the Jordan Club, it is probable that the Sears, Roebuck Club, the Shepard Stores, and E. L. Taylor will be in the match. The match will be played on the 18th hole.

PILEUS STRONG
Represented by Jack McConville, Pileus, Jack Pileus and P. Pileus, Pileus is a strong player. He has won many tournaments and is a member of the National Golf Association.

IN FOR STEEL

THE FARMERS HIGHEST OF PRESIDENT

By LEWIS HANEY

New York, May 12.—To many, the increase in the unfilled order of the Steel corporation was a disappointment. That, however, it did not have been the case, for the increase was really favorable to the small, unfilled orders of the firm. In April, even a small decrease in this time would, therefore, have amounted to a better-than-average performance. The "adjusted" price rose sharply. Therefore, the rise occurred as a good gain in production, especially in shipments. This means that orders had to rise "only" to run ahead of shipment.

[illegible]

As May weekly figures begin to appear, they suggest that the recent jump in April may carry over, at least for a while. But it should be a bit cautious about jumping to conclusions concerning the employment figures. There was a fair rise in April compared with March, and we may expect further gains. But we should remember that employment had slumped very sharply in the new lows.

...to the really favorable
...thus avoiding the mistake
...discriminate "optimism," there
...possibilities of betterment. I
...well to heed President
...T. Roosevelt's suggestion that we ...did not seek to be swept into

President Makes a Speech

No Lack of Energy in HIS Methods

THE PRESIDENT'S SPEECH BEGINS CALMLY

Pictures tell more than words. These photographs of President Roosevelt making a speech will tell readers more about his character than can be told in ten columns of words. What we SEE we KNOW and immediately understand.

What we hear or read carries information to the brain slowly. The human brain has received impressions through the eyes for millions of years, during the period of its evolution and far back in its animal ancestry. Language is more recent, reading is only of yesterday.

You see in these pictures the Roosevelt that carried forty-two out of the forty-eight States last November and has been ceaselessly striving since his inauguration to make good his statement on taking the oath of office:

"I am prepared to recommend measures that a stricken nation may require. . . . In the event of a critical national emergency, I shall not evade the clear course of duty. I shall ask Congress for the one remaining instrument to meet such a crisis—namely a broad executive power to wage war against emergency as great as the power that would be given to me if we were, in fact, invaded by a foreign foe."

Since then the President has asked, and Congress has given to him, powers EXTRAORDINARY. He has made new arrangements with the foreign countries that owe us ten thousand million dollars, and we shall learn presently what these arrangements were.

We have changed the monetary system of the United States, permitting no individual to have any gold or gold certificates,

THE CLIMAX COMES

RELAXATION

compelling the return of all gold to the Government Federal Reserve banks.

The President has taken the steps necessary to increase the currency by "reflation," counteracting the lack of money, providing it in quantity sufficient to run the business of the country.

Here he is—study him and form your own opinion. You are CERTAIN of his sincerity and you hope earnestly for his success.

The Throwback

Once again the fires of hatred
And of ignorance are kindled.
Once again are flames seen rising
From books given to destruction.

And the hurling of these volumes
Into blazing conflagrations
Is a throwback to dark ages.
After centuries of progress.

O. O. McIntyre

New York Day by Day

About People

NEW YORK, May 12—Thoughts while strolling: Never saw a Jap whose hat fits. Loretta Young always seems obeying the photographer's "Look please!" "Mill Gross resembles a bl. . . . Chaplin. I can't think of Myrna Loy without saying "Ship ahoy!" And Ray Vir Den suggests a hop, ship and jump.

Who remembers when the world's worry seemed only halitosis? John Talbot Foote, O. O. McIntyre's son-in-law, who made good in the city. Where did Charles Francis Coe get that nickname "Booker"? Probably from the prize ring. He's a buddy of Gene Tunney. No dog as cunning as the Boston.

One word description of Carl Van Vechten—sluggish. Nobody can draw a wozzy eye like Ruba Goldberg. Or will anyone believe I dreamed of falling out of a balloon the night of the Akron disaster. Bob Sherwood must grow weary of being asked how the weather is up there.

Arthur Samuels in gray with a bright red lapel flower, the dude. Galeworthy asked that money for lawn flowers be given to unemployed. And that's the way to throw a lot of gardeners out of work. The old magazine war horse—John S. Phillips. One of my favorite people—Don.

Now that Don Herold has moved to New York for the umpteenth time from California, people inquire archly if he's not glad to get away from temblors. He responds with this cool-voiced retort: "I'd rather take a chance with a quake than a New York taxi. Mathematically and statistically, quakes injure fewer people in California per annum than bicycles, step-ladders or bathtubs." After which he walks away stiffly with the high-nosed sniff of a star boarder.

Because asthma is looked upon as a "comic" complaint, common among gray whiskers, horses, and pug dogs, with cataract eyes, Don's joke friends like to couple him with it. He had a touch once but long ago. He discovered 273 causes for being, according to medical belief, a symptom, not a disease.

On the avenue not long ago I walked behind Katherine Hepburn, of being as polished and successful as the Blue Train gliding out for Monte Carlo. Miss Hepburn is the most recent of the personality dramas, magnificently performed.

Something about her suggests utter detachment from her sisters—the vague drift and homelessness of snakes.

Since Mayor Gaynor I have not seen a square-crowned derby until today. It was worn by a venerable aristocrat stepping from a victoria with his cane companion along West 57th street's Petticoat Lane. She was a worn among birds of gay plumage and he that quizzical doddard type whose personality dominates by its sheer silliness. Yet he handed her out of the conveyance and escorted her across the pavement with a touch of gallantry too seldom seen. Sidewalk crowds hailed in quick awe.

Don Marquis is recovered from his total blindness and is now fashioning a play on the life of Henry VIII. Four months ago after a five-day siege of insomnia during which he was feverishly finishing a play, he looked up from his typewriter one sunny morning. And suddenly stared into fathoms of darkness.

Irving Caesar, asked by his barber if there was anything else, glanced in the mirror and replied: "You might trim my collar." (Copyright, 1933, by the Boston Evening American.)

O. O. McIntyre's article is a feature every week of the Boston Sunday Advertiser.

Listen, World!

By Elsie Robinson

How About Alimony?

SUPPOSE YOU'RE BUSTED.

Should you have to go to jail? And stay there until you can pay? Which will probably be never? Maybe that question has never bothered you. Then you're lucky. For it's bothering thousands of your fellow citizens who are bound by the laws Elsie Robinson help to put over.

In New York and Brooklyn some men are "doing life" because they can't pay alimony.

So there—they're easting on the taxpayer as more or less permanent guests. One hundred of them in New York and Brooklyn alone, with all our other big cities more than keeping up their quota.

And all because America believes that an ex-wife is entitled to lifelong damages for the breaking of her heart, regardless of whether or not she possesses such an organ.

But now comes Judge Joseph A. Bath of Chicago with a few revolutionary ideas. Perhaps he thinks that if idle school teachers can get up toleration in Chicago, why should idle wives? Or maybe he's fed up on all racketeers. Be that as it may, he has announced that he WILL NO LONGER SEND DIVORCED HUSBANDS WHO ARE UNABLE TO PAY ALIMONY TO JAIL.

Of course, if they can pay but won't, that's different. Then into the dungeon for them! But if they can't, they'll not only be permitted to go free without a sheriff dogging their heels, but they will be given advice, sympathy and assistance in search for employment.

So just how many of them SHOULD WE HAVE ALLMONY AT ALL?

Support for women with children, or women over fifty, or women invalided during marriage, by all means! And, perhaps, help for a year after divorce, until the ex-wife finds a way to earn her living.

But should any childless, healthy young woman ever be granted alimony because marriage proved a failure?

It's a 50-50 break that the failure is as much her fault—received a bad scar. Then why should she be regarded as a victim and he as a criminal?

Also, even though he be of as coarse caliber as she, he was no more desirous of that marriage than she. Often not half as much! Nor did she risk and lose any more than he, or suffer any greater heart damage. Then why should she be regarded as a victim and he as a criminal?

THIS IS LIFE

Lasting Harm May Be Caused by German Book Bonfires

By ROBERT E. ROGERS

There is one remark, very popular among those who have been discussing or writing upon the burning of radical and Jewish books by the Nazis, which irritates me intensely. That is the comment with which most people close their consideration of the subject:

"Oh, well, it is unfortunate, of course, but it really does not matter, because you can't keep down the spreading of truth. It will be only temporary and the books will be circulated, anyway."

That is a characteristically easy-going American attitude—the belief that the law can and will be evaded by bootlegging (or bootlegging) and that in the long run all will be well. Suppression doesn't matter, because books are really very important, anyway, and history has shown that suppression can't work indefinitely.

There are one or two suggestions that are worth making. As John Stuart Mill pointed out in his essay "On Liberty," it is not true that truth crushed to earth will always rise again, and therefore persecution is not of lasting importance. Mill points out that history shows conclusively that truth can be seriously crippled and warped by persecution, can be postponed hundreds of years, can perhaps even be destroyed if the persecution is competent enough. And the Nazi persecution seems to be very competent, indeed.

Persecution Invariably Succeeds

"Indeed, the dictum that truth always triumphs over persecution is one of those pleasant falsehoods which men repeat one after another till they pass into commonplaces, but which all experienced refutes. History means instances of truth put down by persecution. If not suppressed forever, it may be thrown back for centuries. To speak only of religious opinions, the Reformation broke out at least 80 times before Luther, and was put down, 'Persecution has always been the enemy of ages there will be too strong a party to be effectually persecuted. No reasonable person can doubt that Christianity might have been extinguished in the Roman Empire. It spread, and became predominant, because the persecutions were only occasional, lasting but a short time, and separated by long intervals of almost undisturbed propaganda."

"It is a piece of idle sentimentality that truth, merely as truth, has any inherent power denied to error of prevailing against the dangerous and false. Men are not more zealous for truth than they are for error, and a sufficient application of legal or even of social penalties will generally succeed in stopping the propagation of either. The real advantage which truth has consists in this, that when an opinion is true it may be extinguished, once, twice or many times; but in the younger generation revolts generally be found persons to rediscover it, until one of its reappearance falls on a time when from favorable circumstances it escapes persecution until it has made such headway as to withstand all subsequent steps to suppress it."

By truth here we may mean "liberty of writing and publishing and reading," or "tolerance of opinions hostile to our own," or even merely toleration of Judaism in society and the libraries and the schools. With that in mind, read Mill's paragraphs over again and you will see that this is not so unimportant a thing as we prefer to imagine.

No Effect on Course of Literature

This burning of Jewish and other non-Nazi books will not, of course, affect the course of modern literature outside Germany. But it can very seriously affect it within Germany. Note that most frequently in history it is the older generation that burns books and suppresses opinions and that the younger generation revolts against the prohibition. In this case, however, it is young Germany that with shouts of glee collected and burned books, even seriously considering destroying a Jewish physician's rare and valuable collection of medical books. It is young Germany that is deliberately cutting down modern thought and shutting itself into a purely Teutonic picture of the universe.

Now we have seen, already, one example of what can happen when a country deliberately is cut off from world ideas during the time it takes to breed a new generation. Assuming that what happens before a child is five years old does not matter much, there are in Russia boys and girls now 20 years old who have never known anything but Communist economics, politics and philosophy. In that philosophy their minds are set for the rest of their lives. On every hand we are told that it is the younger people who are enthusiastically over Russian culture and who are completely "sold" on the ideology which makes those conditions possible and necessary.

Now if our young German Nazis in their twenties are already so sold on Nazi philosophy, after little more than five years of incarceration, it will not take long to develop a nation in which the indurated liberalism of the elder generation will give way, perforce, to the deliberate and regimented intolerance of the young. Twenty years of the Nazis, and the pattern of Germany will be set for a hundred years.

But the Nazi philosophy and government can't possibly last for 20 years! That is what we say. That is what we said when Lenin seized the power in 1917. That is what we said when Mussolini seized the power in 1922. History seems to have lost the habit of setting in terms of decades.

Fire Won't Stop Jewry From Reading

So it really is not unimportant that all books which contravene the tenets of Prussian Fascism are being smelted out and surrendered and burnt, to the shouts of the young Nazi thugs and patriots. It is, in my opinion, an enormously practical and effective thing to do. It is to do the things which a competent dictator should immediately think of doing.

It might not work with Americans, who are naturally lawless. In fact, I can think of nothing more likely to set the American populace reading widely in science and philosophy and politics than to forbid them books containing more than one-half of one per cent of certain ideas. The impulse to do the things forbidden dates with us from the Tea Party. Now Germans are do-able, in the main. If you can explain to them why they should do a thing, they are likely to do it. I shouldn't be surprised if the Germans did stop reading the forbidden books. Not the Jews, though! The Jews won't stop reading them—or writing them!

The burning of the library of Alexandria did rob the world irreparably of much of the wisdom of the past. The Nazi bonfires are robbing the German people of their birthright of creative literature. It won't do merely to say "After all, it won't do any lasting harm."

The lasting harm may be already done.

Just Folks

Faith

These days are trying.
There's no denying
There's much of sighing
About our pain.

But birds are winging
The sky and singing
And laughter's ringing
Where faith remains.

Little is altered!
Though we have faltered
Let this be realized
In merry strains.

Though plans miscarry
And troubles harry,
Such blows we'll parry
While faith remains.

Our faith still strong is!
We're right what wrong is!
Life's pathway long is!
And snows and rains

May test our faces,
But rich with graces
And sweet, the place is
Where faith remains.
